■ New Directions for Therapists: Couple & Family Work in the 21st Century

This two-session course will explore the specific needs of the 21st century family and how therapists can help couples with children navigate life's challenges. Using Couples on the Fault Line (edited by Peggy Papp) as our primary resource, we will outline new directions for therapists. Participants will be encouraged to share examples from their practice as we explore partnerships in the new millennium.

■ Guided Imagery and Psychotherapy

Social workers can use guided imagery to expand our ability to bring our bio-psycho-social orientation into the therapy room. The body/mind interface can connect us to the client and deepen our understanding of the client's needs and inform the treatment. We will explore using our own body signals as a way to help clients learn from an inner journey. This way of doing guided imagery is much more client-centered because it uses the client's own images instead of using a script to be read.

■ Emergency Coverage of Your Practice: Practical and Ethical Considerations

If you suddenly were to become incapacitated, due to injury, illness or death, who would contact your clients? Just as it is important for an individual to write a Will to protect personal assets and provide for his or her dependents, it is also prudent for a clinician to prepare for an untimely or unanticipated inability to carry out their functions at work. The purpose of this course is to help clinicians anticipate the needs of their clients and their business or the organization where they work, should such an emergency arise. The goal of the course is to enable participants to identify individuals who could step in if needed, write instructions for their backup personnel, and distribute these instructions. Qualifies for 4 Ethics credits.

■ Ethical Dilemmas

This course raises and reviews ethical questions the clinician faces in the course of practice. Questions are analyzed and understood based on the Clinical Social Work Association's Code of Ethics. Students are encouraged to bring into class ethical questions they encounter. THIS COURSE MEETS THE VIRGINIA, MARYLAND, AND half of the DC LICENSING REQUIREMENTS.
